The evolution of information and communication technologies (ICT) changed dramatically business decision-making and affected the role of lawyers considerably. By joining this conference, you will discover the current and future challenges the digital revolution raises to the legal, compliance, corporate social responsibility, and data protection departments. You will find out the expectation of the world's most powerful industrial groups concerning the knowledge and skills of their team of lawyers and get valuable insight on how to streamline your career development to meet the market demand. You will also be able to discuss the career possibilities in the Daimler group. As a member of the Board of Management of Daimler AG responsible for Integrity and Legal Affairs, Ms. Renata Jungo Brüngger is ideally placed to share firsthand information on the perception of the digital transformation of the legal profession in one of the world's largest corporate actors.

Renata Jungo Brüngger has been a member of the Board of Management of Daimler AG since January 1, 2016, with responsibility for Integrity and Legal Affairs. This Board of Management position includes Daimler Group's Legal Department, the Compliance Organization and the Legal Product & Technical Compliance Office Department as well as Corporate Data Protection and Corporate Responsibility Management departments. It is also responsible for respecting and protecting human rights and for the sustained anchoring of a corporate culture of integrity (Integrity Management) throughout the Group.
