Antoine Arjakovsky is a French historian, author and essayist. He is Co-Director of the research department "Society, Freedom, Peace" in the Research Centre of the Collège des Bernardins in Paris, Emeritus Director of the Institute of Ecumenical Studies in Lviv. Former Director of the French University College of Moscow and Former Deputy Director of the French Institute of Ukraine. He has published several books on the history of Orthodox Christian thought and has taught in several European and American universities. Recent publications include "Qu'est-ce que l'orthodoxie?" (Paris, Gallimard, 2013) and "Russia-Ukraine: From War to Peace?" (Ukraine Today, 2015).

Brandon Gallaher is Lecturer of Systematic and Comparative Theology at the University of Exeter and former British Academy Postdoctoral Fellow at Regent's Park College, University of Oxford. He received his DPhil from the University of Oxford, where his research explored the tension between God and the world in the Trinitarian theologies of Sergii Bulgakov, Karl Barth and Hans Urs von Balthasar. He has published historical articles, archival material, and translations on modern Russian theology and has also co-edited a Georges Florovsky reader, The Patristic Witness of Georges Florovsky: Essential Theological Writings, forthcoming from T & T Clark in late 2016.

The Rt Revd Jonathan Goodall, Bishop of Ebbsfleet is a suffragan bishop in the Church of England. After studying music at London University he began a career in academic music, publishing and freelance performance. Ordained deacon in 1989 and priest in 1990, Bishop Jonathan served as a minor canon of Westminster Abbey in 1992. From 1999 he served as secretary and research assistant to successive Anglican Bishops in Europe and from 2005 until his ordination as a bishop in 2013, he was personal chaplain and ecumenical secretary to Archbishop Rowan Williams. His international ecumenical experience is extensive, and he has recently been named as Archbishop of Canterbury's delegate for relations with the Orthodox Church.

John Milbank is Research Professor of Religion, Politics and Ethics and Director of the Centre of Theology and Philosophy at the University of Nottingham, and Chairman of the thinktank Respublica. Previously he taught at the universities of Lancaster, Cambridge and Virginia. He is the author of several books, including Theology and Social Theory, Beyond Secular Order and most recently, with Adrian Pabst, The Politics of Virtue. His numerous articles include essays about Platonism in the Christian East and West and the sophiology of Sergii Bulgakov. He has also written the introduction to the English translation of Antoine Arjakovsky's What is Orthodoxy?

The Most Reverend Kallistos (Ware), Metropolitan of Diokleia is an auxiliary bishop of the Ecumenical Patriarchate in Great Britain. He was ordained to the priesthood and was tonsured as a monk in 1966. He became a lecturer at Oxford in the same year, teaching Eastern Orthodox Studies, a position which he held until his retirement in 2001. Metr. Kallistos is perhaps best known as the author of the book The Orthodox Church, published in 1963 and subsequently revised. More recently, he produced a companion volume, The Orthodox Way. Together with G. E. Palmer and Philip Sherrard, he has undertaken to translate the Philokalia, and with Mother Mary he produced the Lenten Triodion and Festal Menaion.

Getting Around Trinity

To reach the Winstanley Lecture Theatre, turn into Whewell's Court from Trinity Street. Turn right immediately after the first arch and climb the stone stairs. At the top of the stairs, follow the path round the ziggurat-like Wolfson building, leaving it to your left. Then turn right into Blue Boar Court. The Winstanley Lecture Theatre is on the east side of the Court.

To reach the Wren Library from the Winstanley, make your way back onto Trinity Street and walk into Great Court through Great Gate. Cross Great Court, turning left at the fountain and then right towards the steps leading into Hall. Continue straight up the steps and through the passage on the south side of the Hall and you will come out into Nevile's Court, with the Wren Library at the far side. Keeping the lawn on your left, walk under the cloisters to the far right corner of Nevile's Court, where you will find the entrance to the Wren.

To reach the Old Combination Room from the Winstanley, follow the directions for the Wren Library until you are in the passage on the south side of the Hall. There will be a staircase ('S' staircase) immediately to your left. Climb this staircase and turn left; the OCR will be straight ahead.

Places to Eat

There is no shortage of places to grab lunch in Central Cambridge. Turning right on Trinity Street from Whewell's court will take you past St. John's College to the Round Church on Bridge Street. A range of pubs (such as The Mitre and The Baron of Beef), restaurants (such as Byron, Côte, Café Rouge and Wildwood) and cafés can be found on Bridge Street.

Turning right at the Round Church will take you down Sidney Street and into the city centre, past a Sainsbury's and a Costa. Once in the city centre, you will find plenty of places to get food to eat in or take away (Itsu, Eat, Wasabi, Prêt), as well as coffee shops and a range of stalls on Market Square and in the streets around it.

You can also reach the city centre by turning right on Trinity Street from Whewell's Court. This will take you to Great St. Mary's Church, opposite Senate House, with Market Square just behind the church.
