

Samantha Besson holds the Chair “Droit international des institutions” at the Collège de France in Paris and is Part-Time Professor of Public International Law and European Law at the University of Fribourg (Switzerland). A dual Swiss/British national, she was educated in Switzerland (Fribourg & Bern), Austria (Vienna), the United Kingdom (Oxford) and the United States (Columbia). She has been a Visiting Professor at the Universities of Zurich, Lausanne and Lisbon and at Duke, Harvard and Penn Law Schools and a Research Fellow at the Wissenschaftskolleg zu Berlin. She is a member of the Board of the Swiss Academy of Humanities and Social Sciences and was the first Human Rights Delegate of the Swiss Academies of Arts and Sciences. She has taught in various capacities at the Hague Academy of International Law and is the co-chair of the ILA Study Group on the International Law of Regional Organizations. Samantha Besson’s research interests lie at the intersection of general international law and legal philosophy, and in particular: international and European human rights law; international and European law on sources and responsibility; comparative domestic, regional and European Union external relations law; international and European citizenship law and democratic theory. Her latest monographs are La due diligence en droit international, (Recueil des cours de l’Académie de droit international de La Haye, Vol. 409, The Hague: Brill 2020) and Reconstruire l’ordre institutionnel international (Leçons inaugurales du Collège de France, Paris: Fayard/Collège de France 2021).