The Police – between Social Security and Public Safety

University of Fribourg, Switzerland

The duties falling to the police are increasingly settled at the crossroads of crime control and the perception of social problems. Problem-oriented or community policing approaches have been established, where cooperation with partners from the private and public sector, as well as with citizens, play an important role. The goal of this conference is to present diverse views of different players in the field. Moreover, discussions should shed light on how such cooperation might work as well as on possible obstacles.

The conference is targeted towards students, scientists, social workers, members of the police, and anyone interested in the topic.

Participation: Participation is free of charge, registration required for administrative reasons by March 8th, 2017: silvia.staubli@unifr.ch

Language: English and German
