

Gender Sensitive Research and Teaching

Gohar Shahnazaryan, Andrea Boscoboinik and Siran Hovhannisyan

Yerevan State University Center for Gender and Leadership Studies, Armenia and University of Fribourg, Switzerland

A Call for Submission

The Department of Social Science of the University of Fribourg, and the Yerevan State University Center for Gender and Leadership Studies, invite scholars, researchers, and practitioners to submit an article for the publication “Gender Sensitive Research and Teaching.” We expect to receive articles that will show the importance of looking at social research, and the development of academic courses, in the social and political sciences through the lens of gender. The articles may provide an overview of gender sensitive theories, methodologies, and may also present the results of qualitative surveys, quantitative surveys, case studies, and desk reviews. In particular, we encourage submissions that will include recommendations for researchers and scholars on how to develop and organize gender sensitive research.

The articles could include the following topics:

- Placing gender at the center of research
- Using traditional research methods to approach gender issues
- How to conduct gender sensitive research
- How to teach gender sensitive methods
- International comparative research on gender issues
- Epistemological/methodological/ethical dilemmas in gender research, and how to address them

- Gender sensitive methodology can be explored taking examples from research on different topics as: gender and mobility, gender and labor market, gender attitudes of youth, gender and new media technology, among others.

Propositions should be sent to cgl@ysu.am, in English or Armenian before 30.6.2019 and should include:

- Title
- Author’s name
- Institutional affiliation
- Email address
- Short biography (max 10 lines)
- Proposition (750 words excl. bibliography)
- Keywords (6 – 8)

A selection will be made from the propositions received. Authors will be announced if the proposition has been selected for publication before 15th July 2019. Complete articles are expected to be finished and sent by October 1st 2019. Evaluation of articles and corrections until 31st December 2019. Publication expected in Spring 2020.

Schedule:

30th June 2019: deadline to send propositions

15th July 2019: answer if the proposition is accepted or refused

1st October 2019: deadline to send complete articles

31st December 2019: evaluations and corrections

Spring 2020: Publication

Andrea Boscoboinik

University of Fribourg
Social Anthropology

andrea.boscoboinik@unifr.ch

Gohar Shahnazaryan

Yerevan State University

Center for Gender and Leadership Studies

goarshahnazaryan@gmail.com

Siran Hovhannisyan

Yerevan State University

Center for Gender and Leadership Studies

siranhovhan@gmail.com